

HON. LEO A. SNEERINGER

ASSOCIATE JUDGE OF ADAMS COUNTY FOR SIX YEARS.

Conewago Township's Leading Citizen and Highly Respected Throughout County.

Hon. Leo A. Sneeringer, Conewago township's leading citizen, and an associate judge of Adams county, died at his home at Edgemoor on Monday morning following a four months' illness aged about 69 years. He was the son of the late Samuel and Mary Sneeringer and a grandson of the late Joseph Sneeringer of Conewago township. He was born and spent his entire life on the old Sneeringer farm adjoining Conewago Chapel. This farm was bought by Joseph Sneeringer, grandfather of the deceased from Robert Owens over 100 years and has passed from father to son since that date. On the farm stands the oldest brick residence in the county, said to have been built from brick brought from England and the old mansion seems as good to-day as when erected.

Judge Sneeringer held the office of Associate Judge of Adams county from 1908 to 1914. He made many friends by reason of his courteous treatment on the bench. He was always dignified yet so patient, just and affable, always ready to faithfully discharge every duty placed upon him and always acting so to uphold and increase the respect and prestige due the bench. He was a faithful member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Conewago Chapel, and prominent in the councils of the Church. The funeral was held Thursday morning from Sacred Eddystone Disaster.

A known death list of 121 persons, mostly women and girls, is the toll of the explosion of thousands of three inch shrapnel shells which wrecked two buildings of the Eddystone Ammunition corporation, near Chester.

There are 105 unidentified dead in the Chester morgue, seven in the Taylor Hospital, at Ridley Park, and two more in the Crozier Hospital, in Upland.

In these hospitals and in the Chester hospital are more than a hundred seriously injured. And several have little or no chance of recovery. Thirty-five men are in the Sixth Regiment Armory, in Chester, with injuries from which they will recover.

The list of casualties will be swelled when bodies of men and girls who were blown through the walls and windows of the old "F" building, where the explosion occurred, are recovered from the Delaware River. Survivors of the catastrophe say they saw many bodies hurtling through the air into the waters of the Delaware, which is adjacent to building "F," one of the destroyed structures.

Identification of the bodies is difficult. Many of them have been so burned that they may never be identified. Some of the bodies are mere trunks, with arms and legs blown off. A telephone employee says he helped carry out twelve women in pieces.

The property damage is estimated at $25,000. The buildings destroyed were "10 F" and "Old F." Each was two stories high, and about 300 by 75 feet in dimension.

In these buildings time fuses were prepared. Girls worked on one side of each structure, the men and boys on the others. It was here that time fuses were prepared.

LUTHERANS SUMMONED.

1,400,000 Members Called Upon for Loyal Support to United States.

Whereas, the Government of the United States has declared that our beloved country is in a state of war, and it becomes the duty of all citizens to give the authorities their most earnest support, we, the presidents of the three general Lutheran bodies in America, viz: the General Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, the General Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the South, do hereby call upon and request the 1,400,000 members of these bodies, now, as they ever have done, to affirm and approve by word and act, their loyalty to the president and congress of the United States; and we further recommend to the congregations in our cities and towns that they form or unite in forming American Red Cross chapters in their respective communities for the amelioration of the lot of our brave soldiers and sailors, and that they offer up prayers that the war may end with honor to our country and in an early and perpetual peace.

Red Cross Organized Here.

A petition was sent on Monday to the headquarters of the Atlantic Division of the American Red Cross Society, signed by Dr. W. A. Granville, Dr. Charles H. Huber, Dr. J. A. Singmaster, Hon. C. Wm. Beales, Hon. Donald P. McPherson, Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean, and Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, asking for a charter for a Gettysburg branch of the society. Dr. Huber has been made temporary chairman and Mrs. Lewars temporary secretary. A public meeting will be held at an early date in the Court House when a permanent organization will be effected. The general public can make such an organization most effective by attending meetings, taking part and giving the movement support.

The Red Cross is organized for the purpose of alleviating distress in war and during calamities caused by fire, flood, earthquake, famine or other sources of suffering. It is not an exclusive woman's organization but in its membership are many men. Branches of the Society are springing up all over the country. Organization is followed by preparation of local supplies. One half of dues is sent to the American Red Cross for its operation and the other half is available locally for purchase of materials for preparing supplies.

The annual dues are as follows: membership, one dollar; subscribing, two dollars; contributing, five dollars; sustaining, ten dollars. Life membership is placed at $25 and national dues at $100. Both of these require but one payment. Subscriptions may be paid to Mrs. Lewars at the meeting next week or at any time before that. The membership will be open to everybody and efforts will be made to secure as large an enrollment in Gettysburg as possible.

TEXT OF APPLEGRADING LAW

IMPORTANT MEASURE PASSED THE STATE SENATE.

It is designed for the Protection of the Apple Grower and Public Buying Apples.

Senator C. Wm. Beales recently introduced in the Senate of the State an apple grading bill which passed the Senate on Monday evening of this week and has gone to the House. The proposed new law has the approval of the Fruit Growers' Association of Adams County and also the State organization. The bill is designed for the protection of the fruit grower and the buying public. To require packages of apples to be marked as to variety and amount of contents is only fair and honest and gives the public the protection of getting what they pay for. It is aimed to prevent the heading up with fine apples and filling in with inferior fruit, a practice most harmful to the fruit growers as a whole. General reputation for dishonesty in pack has done incalculable harm to fruit sections and the bill will prevent the repetition in this State of any such condition. Honest grades, assortments and packs required by law will insure to the benefit of the grower and consumer and build up the most satisfactory trade. The purpose of the new law is to prevent the selling of apples as the small boy swaps his broken bladed knife "sight unseen." The House should put the bill through. The provisions of this bill, important to many of our citizens, are as follows:

Sec. 1. Every closed package containing apples grown in the State of Pennsylvania which is sold, offered or consigned for sale, packed for sale, or shipped for sale, shall bear upon the outside of one end in plain letters or figures, or both, the name and address of the person by whose authority the apples were packed; the true name of the variety therein contained and the minimum size or numerical count of the fruit in the package, provided that packages which cannot readily be marked on an exposed end shall be similarly marked in a conspicuous place. If the true name of the variety is not known to the packer or the person by whose authority the apples are packed or branded, then such variety shall be designated as "unknown." Every package of apples which is repacked shall bear the name and address of the person by whose authority it is repacked, in addition to the other marks prescribed by this Act. The letters and figures used in marking closed packages of apples under the provisions of this Act, shall be of a size not less than thirty-six point Gothic.

Sec. 2. The marks prescribed by this Act may be accompanied by any additional marks which are in accordance with the facts and which are not inconsistent with or do not in any way obscure the marks required by this Act. Apples packed and branded in accordance with the United States Apple Grading Law approved August third, nineteen hundred and twelve, shall be exempt from the provisions of this Act.

Sec. 3. All apples packed within the meaning of this Act shall be so packed that the face or exposed surface shall fairly represent the average of the apples in the package. And it shall be considered a fair representation if the face or exposed surface does not exceed the average of the apples in the package by more than 15 per centum in the matter of size and freedom from defects.

Sec. 4. The minimum size of the fruit in all grades shall be determined by taking the transverse diameter of the smallest fruit in the package. Minimum sizes shall be stated in variations of one-quarter of an inch, as two inches, two and one-quarter inches, two and three-quarter inches, three inches, three and one-quarter inches, and so on, in accordance with the facts. Minimum sizes may be designated by either figures or words and the word "minimum" may be designated by the use of the abbreviation "min." A tolerance of 5 per centum in the matter of size shall be allowed.

Sec. 5. It shall be unlawful for any person to pack for sale, offer for sale, offer or consign for sale, have in possession intended for sale, or sell, in closed packages, any apples grown in this State which are not packed and marked in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the regulations made hereunder, or closed packages bearing any false statement, design, or device regarding such apples within the meaning of this Act.

Sec. 6. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars for the first offense and not more than one hundred dollars for each subsequent offense; provided, that no person shall be prosecuted under this Act who can establish by satisfactory evidence that no part of the packing or branding of the apples concerned was done by him or under his authority, and that he had no knowledge that they were not packed in accordance with said provisions. All penalties costs and fines collected under this Act shall be paid to the Sheely—Stock and Sauble—Stock. A double wedding took place at Pine Run, Hamilton township, on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stock, when their daughters, Esther May and Ruth Elma, became the brides of Channel Sheely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheely of New Oxford, and Emory A. Sauble, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sauble of near New Oxford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter E. Garrett, pastor of the Reformed Church, the ring ceremony being used. The brides wore white dresses, white panama hats and carried bouquets of lilies of the valley. A wedding dinner was served at the Stock home. Mr. and Mrs. Sauble will go to housekeeping on the groom's father's farm. Mr. Sheely is employed in New Oxford.

The ring ceremony was used and was performed by Dr. S. A. Martin, of Lafayette College who was principal of the Shippensburg Normal School at the time bride and groom graduated from that institution. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Wise of Philadelphia, and Jack Wise, brother of the bride, acted as best man. She wore a gown of tulle over white satin and carried a large bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Matthews, head of the department of instrumental music at the Shippensburg Normal School with whom Miss Wise was associated for several years as assistant. Dr. and Mrs. Pearson left Saturday for a brief wedding trip. Upon their return they will spend several days in York Springs and Marysville and then will leave April 11 for El Paso, Texas, where Dr. Pearson is a first lieutenant in the dental corps of the U. S. The bride, a milliner previous to her marriage, was attired in a becoming suit of Rookie velour cloth and a black straw picture hat. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom left for Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City. They will return to Brunswick, Md., the home of the bridegroom's mother, on Saturday, where a reception will be held. The bridegroom, a graduate of the University of Maryland, has practiced in East Berlin for the last eight years.

Plank—Kump. Ira Plank of Gettysburg, and Miss Blanche Kump of Hanover, were married on Wednesday last by the bride's brother, Rev. Wm. A. Kump, at the Lutheran parsonage in Chambersburg. Following the ceremony and a wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Plank left for New York on a wedding trip. They will reside at 50 York street, Gettysburg. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kump of Hanover, and has been employed as an assistant at the Hanover Public Library for several years. Gettysburg Fire Company.

The Fire Company at their regular meeting on Wednesday evening adopted a number of important amendments to their by-laws. The amendments were proposed several months ago and had been considered. One of the changes was in name of the company from Gettysburg Steam Fire Company No. 1 to the Gettysburg Fire Company. The amendments will go to the Town Council for ratification. They provide among other things the following:

Placing the age limit for application for membership in the company from 21 to 35 years. Heretofore applicants between the ages of 18 and 45 years were admitted to the organization.

Retiring a member when he is 60 years of age, and allowing him sick and death benefits the same as provided for active members.

Raising the death benefit from $35 to $50. This applies to the death of a fireman from any cause.

Placing the sick benefits as follows: $2 for first five weeks and $1 for the succeeding five weeks. These benefits are given in the event of sickness or accident, providing the sickness is contracted or the accident is met with when in the service of the company at fires.

Changing the form of application blank so as to include certification by the applicant as to his physical fitness. This clause was added with the establishment of the sick and death benefits.

Call to the Colors.

When it comes to a call to the colors, Gettysburg and Adams County have always given their quota to the country. The military enrollment of the county contains 4915 men between ages of 21 and 45. It has been estimated that over 800 of these are between 21 and 25, and as the age limit is 15 there must be another 800 between 16 and 21, so that there must be fully 1500 between ages of 16 and 25 who would be included in a selective draft.

Many of our young men are anxious to respond to the call.

Harry McNair, son of Mrs. Alice McNair of Freedom township.

William G. Lentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Lentz, of P. Chow.

John Ocker, son of Mrs. Martha J. Ocker of Littlestown, has enlisted with the Fifth Regiment of Maryland.

Albert Lott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lott of West Middle street, has enlisted in the United States Army at the York recruiting station, passed the examination and entered the cavalry branch of the service and has been sent to Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Miss Mabel Reily, daughter of the late Barnabas Reily of Steinwehr avenue, has volunteered for the American Red Cross Nursing Association and has been instructed to report in May at Baltimore.

Burgess Vetoes Trolley Franchise.

Burgess J. W. Eicholtz has vetoed the trolley franchise given by the Town Council last week for want of a definite limitation as to time within which road must be built, a reasonable restriction to go with every such franchise. The veto addressed to the President and members of the Council is as follows:

I am returning herewith without my approval the ordinance adopted by you on the 3d day of April, 1917, granting a franchise to the Washington, Westminster and Gettysburg Railway Company, for the reason that there is no time limit within which this company is compelled to complete its line within the borough and commence operations.

Without this provision this company could hold the right of entry into our borough indefinitely and very likely prevent other companies from coming here for the same or similar purposes, and yet do nothing itself.

In my opinion the company should be required to give a bond in a reasonable amount conditioned that the company exercise its rights, and operate its line within the borough within two years from the granting of the franchise, otherwise the bond to be forfeited to the borough.

I am strongly in favor of the proposition to allow this company to come here, but at the same time I think the interests of the borough should be protected in the manner I have indicated.

Respectfully,
J. W. EICHOLTZ.

Burgess.

WARRING COUNTRIES SOUND

Credit of France and England, In Spite of Severe Strain, Is Still on Solid Basis.

The United States, through the experience of the warring European powers, has acquired a tremendous fund of preparedness information. American who have served with the European armies and navies have made available to us their valuable experience in the world war.

In the less spectacular, although hardly less important, phase of the struggle, war financing, this country has also had skilled observers. It has not been necessary for them to visit the scene of the struggle. In a way the scene of the struggle has come to them. Much of the planning of the financial side of the war has taken place within shadow of Trinity Church in 60 or 61 Broadway, New York.

America World Financial Leader. By reason of America's newly acquired leadership in the world's finances, we know how Europe has managed herself to meet the strain of her tremendous struggle. Money is the shows of war. We know how Europe has met her needs plant and equipment. America therefore is in a much better position than we were at the beginning of any of the five wars which brought us face to face with the world's financial and social problems.

The risks and uncertainties of this country through which Europe has conducted much of her war financing are at one with the nation's industries in affording the government the resources with which to meet the ever-increasing demands of the war. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York has been able to look forward to the end of the war with a fund of $100,000,000 in war loans and in the United States, there is some rather strong opinion that the United States now has approximately thirty per cent of the world's supply of money. This is an immense amount of money, and it is held by this country in 1917 and in 1918 is the only country in the world which is not only discharging this obligation but is also a basis for foreign loans and the expansion of credit.

Warring Nations Financially Strong. It is not only the result of a fighting at this country, not only European war loans but also loans of our own money to the British and French governments, which has made it possible for the United States to meet the financial needs of the world.

If You Need Rugs Within the Next Year==Buy Them Now!

THIS is sound advice, which may be wisely followed by all home furnishers. The present shortage of carpet wool, of jute, of linen, and the higher costs of labor, fuel, power and other items, are forcing manufacturers to increase prices of future shipments. If you need Rugs at once, or next summer or autumn—buy them NOW at present prices. For the information of our customers it is almost unnecessary to say that, irrespective of market conditions, we shall still adhere to the same standards. Our prices always shall be based on actual costs to us—and we shall take advantage of every merchandising opportunity which might be converted to your advantage. Despite unprecedented market conditions our selling of Rugs last month exceeded all previous records for January and February sales. The following Rugs here named we have fair stocks of.

Wool Fiber Rugs	Tapestry	Axminster	Body Brussels
36x72 in.	Small Sizes	9x12	9x12
6x9 ft.	8-3x10-2
8-3x10-6	9x12
9x12

Oil Cloth, Linoleum and Linoleums. The above remarks held good in this line as some of the largest manufacturers have withdrawn their lines of oil cloth of advance and so there is sure to be a shortage this year. Our assortment here is no exception.

Window Shades. These are higher than last season, but we feel confident we can give you prices that will save you money from prices later on when our present stock is sold.

UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY.

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Gettysburg. No Gettysburg resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. Mary E. Ohler, 147 Hanover St., Gettysburg, says: "I had been troubled by weak kidneys for a long time. My back ached constantly and pains shot up to my head. I had frequent chills and often got very dizzy. The kidney action was irregular and the secretions contained sediment. Rheumatic pains bothered me greatly. This went on until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the People's Drug Store. I could notice the difference almost as soon as I started to take them. My kidneys acted properly, the dizzy spells left, my back got better and finally, the rheumatic pains entirely disappeared."

(Statement given January 3, 1910). On February 12, 1916, Mrs. Ohler said: "It hasn't been necessary for me to use Doan's Kidney Pills in quite a long time, so I feel the benefit they gave me has been permanent."

The Starvation Point.

To the question, "If there were a siege, how long do you think the soldiers and civilians could live after the food supplies gave out?" an English paper answers: Science tells us that if he can get drinking water an ordinary man can exist for thirty days without food. At the end of that time the machinery of the body will not be spoiled and can be brought back to its former strength by careful feeding.

About a quarter of our body weight is fat, and it is mostly this fat that is absorbed as food during the period of starvation. We can absorb and burn up our muscles until 60 per cent of their weight is gone. We can do the same with from 30 to 40 per cent of our liver and digestive organs and 20 per cent of our lungs. Our hearts can lose 10 per cent and our brains and nervous systems can lose 5 per cent.

It will be seen that the more vital organs—heart and brain—yield least of their valuable substance for the life of the body, while the less essential substances—fat, muscle fiber, etc.—are consumed first.

Don't Be Afraid of Work.

Charles M. Schwab, the well known master of Bethlehem steel works, has no more patience with the man who works by the time clock than has Adam Bede with his fellow workmen who dropped their tools at the sound of the whistle. In his book "Succeeding With What You Have" he writes: "I have yet to hear of one instance where misfortune hit a man because he worked overtime. Not long ago a man was promoted in our works. How did you happen to advance this fellow? I asked his boss. 'Well,' he explained, 'I noticed that when the day shift went off duty this man stayed on the job until he had talked over the day's problems with his successor. That's why.' The man who fails to give his service during the hours for which he is paid is dishonest. The man who is not willing to give more than this is foolish."

His First Golf Play.

H. Chandler Egan's first golf was played on a three hole course in a pasture back of his father's house, at Highland Park, Ill. The former champion and his brother laid out the links, then invited their cousin, Walter, to teach them the game. The latter teed up a ball on the first, hit it straight down to the broomstick which served as a flag pole. The ball bounced along the uneven green and disappeared in the hole. Turning to his astonished gallery, he remarked:

"There, you see, it is very simple. That is the way you do it."

Chandler Egan tried, but didn't succeed, and although he won the amateur title twice, he claims he was never able to equal the wonderful drive his cousin made that day. —Golfers' Magazine.

Eyes of Rubber.

Artificial eyes of rubber are taking the place of the old style glass optics in Europe. The rubber eyes have the advantage of being unbreakable, and as they are of pneumatic construction they maintain an elastic contact between the eyeballs and the back of the ordinary cavity.

To make the new rubber product a cast formed of liquid plaster is made of the ordinary cavity, and from this is constructed an eyeball, the face being of vulcanite. The front and back parts are made of soft rubber, there being a space between the two parts which is occupied by air, making the eyes pneumatic. —Popular Science Monthly.

Good Guess.

"Did the doctor know what you had?" "Sounded like a pretty accurate idea. He asked for $10, and I had $11." —Kansas City Journal.

Encouraging Him.

He—Do you think your father would consent to my marrying you? She—He might. Father's so eccentric. —Sydney Bulletin.

Healthful Norway.

The average length of life is greater in Norway than it is in any other part of the world.

Cheerfulness is what greases the axles of the world; some people go through life creaking.

Don't Cross Your Legs.

"Every time a man crosses his legs he gives his heart that much extra work to do," says William Muldoon. "You know what happens to a stream of water when you squeeze the garden hose."

This widely known physical instructor attaches great importance to proper breathing. He told me of the trouble he had in making John L. Sullivan breathe properly, and he dwelt on the harm that members of Americans do themselves, witness the prevalence of catarrhal affections, by the bad habit of mouth breathing.

"Keep your mouth shut. Breathe through your nostrils," he is always saying to his patients.

If the nostrils are stopped up he explains how they may be made to function properly by simple cleansing operations, and he tells us that these be performed regularly.

"We need filtered air just as we need filtered water, and the nose is our filter. You boys want to remember that." —Exchange.

Trees in Paris.

Paris maintains a municipal nursery where expert care and attention are given young trees. The forestry department of the city government is as well organized as the public health or street cleaning department, and its staff is selected carefully.

From the day it is set out in a public square or street each tree bears a distinct identity of its own and is the special ward of an expert gardener. Men who tend the trees have regular routes like lamp-lighters or policemen.

Every tree is numbered, and a record of its development and its condition is kept—its state of health, the dates on which trimming or pruning is necessary and all other details.

The height of each tree must bear a harmonious relation to second and third story windows, and, more important, its position so far as heat, light and wind exercise influences upon it, is studied. —Kansas City Journal.

Keep the Machine in Repair.

Think for a moment. A man who would no more run his motorcar on deflated tires or with sand in the gear box than he would use sulphuric acid for motive power will keep going right on at his business when the tread of his own physical mechanism is flattening out and the gear box of his mind is filling with the wrong kind of grit.

The impatient optimism that shakes off a vague oppression with the assurance "I'll be all right tomorrow" has had as much to do with lengthening out the list of bankrupts as any other thing that could be named. You can't correct a bad condition by persisting in the things that cause it. You will only make it worse. You can easily enough, if you are obstinate enough, make it so much worse that it will "be the death of you," or, anyway, put you out of business.

Catalogue Your Books.

Have you ever made an alphabetical list of the books in your library? Why not do it?

Either by title or author, but better by both.

A blank book will answer, but cards are better for the purpose.

It is a great joy to watch the number grow and the only practical way to know just what you have on your own shelves.

Thoreau called books "the treasured wealth of the world," and it were well for us to know at least how much of this treasure we possess. —Exchange.

Why Plates Are Round.

All our plates are circular in shape. Now, a square or oval plate would be just as convenient. Is there any reason why plates should be of their present shape? It seems that if we dip into the far past we may discover the cause. Our remote ancestors ate their food off flat pieces of wood cut from a tree trunk. The tree trunk being cylindrical in shape, the earliest plates were therefore roughly circular, and the shape has been used ever since.

He Had the Real Kick.

"Don't seem to be a very good day for fish," remarked the man on the bank to the angler who had sat for four hours without a nibble.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the fisherman calmly. "I don't see why the fish should complain. I'm the one who ought to kick."

Corn of Guatemala.

Guatemala's annual corn production amounts to about fourteen millions of 104.4 pounds each. This makes for domestic consumption only, as corn is the most important food in that country. Beans rank next in importance as a national food.

Golden Weddings.

"But, papa, things have changed since you were young." "Yes, they have. Folks used to wait fifty years for a golden wedding, but now they demand it at the start."

Her Gain.

Mrs. Jones—Does your husband remember your wedding anniversary? Mrs. Smith—No; so I remind him of it in January and June and get two presents. —Harper's Bazar.

Dangerous Moonlight.

Moonlight moon intense sometimes causes sore eyes in Cuba, and the natives navigate and perambulate with umbrellas and parashoots.

Capacity.

Spink—Jones told me today that he isn't drinking any more. Spunk—I don't see how he could. —Life.

The man who is master of himself is master of circumstances and is therefore the successful man.

THE WAR PROCLAMATION

PRESIDENT'S DECLARATION
FOLLOWS WAR RESOLUTION.

Regulations for Public Safety Are Announced and Every Citizen
Should Loyal Support Them.

Whereas, The Congress of the United States, in the exercise of the constitutional authority vested in them, have resolved by joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives, bearing date this day, that a state of war between the United States and the Imperial German Government, which has been thrust upon the United States, is hereby formally declared;

Whereas, It is provided by Section 4067 of the Revised Statutes as follows:

Whenever there is declared a war between the United States and any foreign nation or Government, or any invasion or predatory incursion is perpetrated, attempted or threatened against the territory of the United States by any foreign nation or Government, and the President makes public proclamation of the event, all natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of a hostile nation or Government being male of the age of fourteen years and upward who shall be within the United States and not actually naturalized shall be liable to be apprehended, restrained, secured and removed as alien enemies.

The President is authorized in any such event, by his proclamation thereof or other public acts, to direct the conduct to be observed on the part of the United States toward the aliens who become so liable; the manner and degree of the restraint to which they shall be subject and in what cases and upon what security their residence shall be permitted and to provide for the removal of those who, not being permitted to reside within the United States, refuse or neglect to depart therefrom and to establish any such regulations which are found necessary in the premises and for the public safety;

Whereas, By Sections 4068, 4069 and 4070 of the Revised Statutes further provision is made relative to alien enemies;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim to all whom it may concern that a state of war exists between the United States and the Imperial German Government, and I do specially direct all officers, civil or military, of the United States that they exercise vigilance and zeal in the discharge of the duties incident to such a state of war, and I do, moreover, earnestly appeal to all American citizens that they, in loyal devotion to their country, dedicated from its foundation to the principles of liberty and justice, uphold the laws of the land and give undivided and willing support to those measures which may be adopted by the constitutional authorities in prosecuting the war to a successful issue and in obtaining a secure and just peace;

And acting under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution of the United States and the said sections of the Revised Statutes:

I do hereby further proclaim and direct that the conduct to be observed on the part of the United States toward all natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of Germany, being male, of the age of fourteen years and upward, who shall be within the United States and not actually naturalized, who for the purpose of this proclamation and under such sections of the Revised Statutes are termed alien enemies, shall be as follows:

All alien enemies are enjoined to preserve the peace toward the United States and to refrain from crime against the public safety and from violating the laws of the United States and of the States and Territories thereof, and to refrain from actual hostility or giving information, aid or comfort to the enemies of the United States, and to comply strictly with the regulations which are hereby or which may be from time to time promulgated by the President, and so long as they shall conduct themselves in accordance with law they shall be undisturbed in the peaceful pursuit of their lives and occupations and be accorded the consideration due to all peaceful and law-abiding persons, except so far as restrictions may be necessary for their own protection and for the safety of the United States, and toward such alien enemies as conduct themselves in accordance with law all citizens of the United States are enjoined to preserve the peace and to treat them with all such friendliness as may be compatible with loyalty and allegiance to the United States.

And all alien enemies who fail to conduct themselves as so enjoined, in addition to all other penalties prescribed by law, shall be liable to restraint or to a security or to removal and depart from the United States in the manner prescribed by Sections 4068 and 4069 of the Revised Statutes and as prescribed in the regulations duly promulgated by the President.

And pursuant to the authority vested in me, I hereby declare and establish the following regulations, which I find necessary in the premises and for the public safety:

First. An alien enemy shall not have in his possession at any time or place any firearms, weapons or implements of war, or component parts thereof; ammunition, Maxim or other silencer, arms or explosives or material used in the manufacture of explosives.

Second. An alien enemy shall not have in his possession at any time or place, or use or operate, any aircraft or wireless apparatus, or any form of signaling device, or any form of cipher code or any paper, document or book written or printed in cipher, or in which there may be invisible writing.

Third. All property found in the possession of an alien enemy in violation of the foregoing regulations shall be subject to seizure by the United States.

Fourth. An alien enemy shall not approach or be found within one-half a mile of any Federal or State fort, camp, arsenal, aircraft station, Government or naval vessel, navy yard, factory or workshop for the manufacture of munitions of war or of any products for the use of the army or navy.

Fifth. An alien enemy shall not write, print or publish any attack or threat against the Government or Congress of the United States, or either branch thereof, or against the measures or policy of the United States, or against the persons or property of any person in the military, naval or civil service of the United States, or of the States or Territories, or of the District of Columbia, or of the municipal governments therein.

Sixth. An alien enemy shall not commit or abet any hostile acts against the United States, or give information, aid or comfort to its enemies.

Seventh. An alien enemy shall not reside in or continue to reside in, to remain in or enter any locality which the President may from time to time designate by an executive order as a prohibitive area in which residence by an alien enemy shall be found by him to constitute a danger to the public peace and safety of the United States except by permit from the President and except under such limitations or restrictions as the President may prescribe.

Eighth. An alien enemy whom the President shall have reasonable cause to believe to be aiding or about to aid the enemy or to be at large to the danger of the public peace or safety of the United States, or to have violated or to be about to violate any of these regulations, shall remove to any location designated by the President by executive order, and shall not remove therefrom without permit, or shall depart from the United States if so required by the President.

Ninth. No alien enemy shall depart from the United States until he shall have received such permit as the President shall prescribe, or except under order of a Court, Judge or Justice, under Sections 4069 and 4070 of the Revised Statutes.

Tenth. No alien enemy shall land in or enter the United States except under such restrictions and at such places as the President may prescribe.

Eleventh. If necessary to prevent violation of the regulations, all alien enemies will be obliged to register.

Twelfth. An alien enemy whom there may be reasonable cause to believe to be aiding or about to aid the enemy, or who is at large to the danger of the public peace or safety, or who violates or who attempts to violate or of whom there is reasonable grounds to believe that he is about to violate any regulation to be promulgated by the President or any criminal law of the United States or of the States or Territories thereof, will be subject to summary arrest by the United States, by the United States Marshall or his deputy or such other officers as the President shall designate, and to confinement in such penitentiary, prison, jail, military camp or other place of detention as may be directed by the President.

This proclamation and the regulations herein contained shall extend and apply to all land and water, continental or insular, in any way within the jurisdiction of the United States.

Actual and potential resources which, all told, probably never have been equaled by those of any other nation in the history of the world, are brought into the great war under the American flag.

Into the balance against Germany are thrown a navy in strength and efficiency among the foremost afloat, an army comparatively small but highly efficient, backed by a citizenry of upward of 20,000,000 capable of military duty, industrial resources incomparably the greatest in the world, already mobilized for public service, and the moral force of more than 100,000,000 Americans awakened to their country's peril and united behind their President with a patriotic fervor reinvigorating the spirit of '76.

Although much remains to be done, officials believe the nation's destinies are secure now, no matter how stubborn or prolonged the pressure of German militarism or how wide the scope of German intrigue. The slowly maturing preparedness sentiment has borne fruit in military, naval and industrial measures which already have put the United States on a defense basis not even hoped for two years ago. What more it will do, the President believes, can be measured only by what the Administration finds will be necessary.

The navy, always the first line of defense, has cleared its decks of antiquated ironclads, has added new units modernized to meet the new tactics, and through the accelerated construction of ships and great numbers are being completed in other ways, so that it is now the largest and most powerful fleet in the world in power and efficiency. And it has but two cave Sections 4068 and 4069 of the Revised Statutes and as prescribed in the regulations duly promulgated by the President.

And pursuant to the authority vested in me, I hereby declare and establish the following regulations, which I find necessary in the premises and for the public safety:

First. An alien enemy shall not have in his possession at any time or place any firearms, weapons or implements of war, or component parts thereof; ammunition, Maxim or other silencer, arms or explosives or material used in the manufacture of explosives.

Second. An alien enemy shall not have in his possession at any time or place, or use or operate, any aircraft or wireless apparatus, or any form of signaling device, or any form of cipher code or any paper, document or book written or printed in cipher, throughout the country and can be fully mobilized on short notice. Without additional authorization by Congress the regulars and guardsmen could be recruited to a combined strength of 700,000 and detailed plans for whatever larger army may be authorized have been prepared, and great quantities of equipment for it purchased.

Trolley Welcomed.

The Washington, Westminster and Gettysburg trolley was welcomed to the April meeting last Tuesday evening with a franchise permitting entry into the town over proposed extension of East Middle street to a point east of Confederate avenue. A representative of the trolley expressed gratification at the action taken by Town Council. It is stated that a road can be built of not over a maximum grade of one per cent from Gettysburg to Washington and that when work is started four or five gangs will go at it, one at Gettysburg, one at Washington, and two at Westminster. Littlestown gave franchise last week.

After a social chat the party was invited to the dining room where the hostess had made ample provision for refreshments consisting of sandwiches, bananas, oranges, ice cream, cake and hot postum.

Farmers are busy hauling grain since it has gone over the $200 mark. Samuel J. Cashman received four marks as the result of the kicks of a mule. Neither of the marks are serious.

Since the continuous high winds, the roads are drying and becoming more accessible for travel.

The grain fields are looking exceptionally good and the prospect point to a beautiful harvest.

A religious rally will be held in the local church, as follows: Reformed, Pastor Samuel Luthern, April 15.

WOMEN WHO

PINEY CREEK.

Miss Mable Powers of Littlestown, is spending the week with J. C. Sargent and family.

Mrs. David Curran of Westminster has returned home after spending a few days the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Myers and sons Paul and Kenneth of Hanover, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sheely of Littlestown, spent Sunday with Clayton Shanchebrook and wife.

Clarence Myers returned home on Saturday after spending several months at Wilmington, Del., where he was employed.

Mrs. William Lemmon and son Wilbur spent several days the past week at Hanover as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bowers.

Hydrophobia has broken out among the dogs in Freedom township. This week two belonging to William Winebrenner became rabid. Frothed at the mouth and showed every symptom of hydrophobia. Mr. Winebrenner called in Hiram G. Reager who shot them forthwith.

Oscar D. Bream of Gettysburg Route 7 was injured while plowing on Wednesday. One of the horses in his team was a colt that became unmanageable and in the mixup Mr. Bream was thrown down and trampled upon. It was necessary to take him to the York Hospital for an examination.

J. S. Yaukey of Fayetteville, who some time ago discovered a heavy vein of white clay on his land near Cold Spring, has since learned that the clay is of a special high grade and quality, being far superior to the ordinary white clay found in some localities. This clay, Mr. Yaukey has learned from chemists, has a special high value and can be used for the making of a recently discovered high explosive. The U. S. Government has made inquiry of Mr. Yaukey as to the quantity of the clay.

David E. Wagner of Latimore township was engaged in hauling lumber from Hayberger's saw mill and was standing on the "lazy board" drawing the brakes of the wagon when the apparatus broke and he was thrown under the wagon and a rear wheel of the heavy loaded vehicle passed over his left leg just above the knee. The soft ground broke the force of the pressure and he escaped with a terribly bruised leg.

What Are You Worth?

Have you any idea? Did you ever capitalize your wages and figure it out? This is the way to ascertain how much your labor is really worth.

For instance, a man who has saved $20,000 and invested it at 5 per cent receives an annual income of $1,000 a year, or about $20 a week.

The clerk in the office or the workman in the factory who gets $20 a week therefore receives the income at 5 per cent on an investment of $20,000.

He is a $20,000 man—that is, he is getting as much week by week as the man with $20,000 who depends solely upon the income from his investments and who does not work for a living.

The man who earns $40 a week has about the same income as the investor with $40,000 put out at interest at 5 per cent.

So labor is capital. It has a market value. It can be called a commodity because it can be sold by its owner the same as any other possession he may have.—John A. Schleiter in Leslie's.

Shotguns in War.

That shotguns should be largely utilized in modern warfare is the contention of a number of military experts. It is pointed out that such guns would be particularly useful to sentries at night time, as an intruder might more easily be crippled and captured by a spreading charge of heavy shot than by a single bullet. Moreover, a person moving quietly at night often be missed by a shot from a rifle, whereas a snapshot from a shotgun in semidarkness could hardly fail to find its object.

In the trenches shotguns could be used with success. A shotgun loaded with about forty-eight grains of powder and one and a half ounces of big shot, with about twenty-five pellets, would be of much more value than the rifle, as during a night attack, either for attack or defense in semidarkness, a single charge would hardly fail to inflict serious wounds on one or more of the enemy.—Exchange.

The Swiss Admiral.

"As much business as a Swiss admiral" is a term sometimes used satirically. But the little island nation actually had an admiral once. He was an Englishman, too, a Colonel Williams, who joined the Swiss colors in 1799. This Colonel Williams got together a small fleet on Lake Zurich and was ordered to oppose the French army, which was preparing to attack the Austrians and Russians massed near by.

The French attacked their allied foes and routed them. Admiral Williams calmly watched the battle that was in progress on land. Then, enraged at his own inaction, he discharged his crews, scuttled his vessels and went back to England.

Switzerland now has one armored boat on Lake Lucerne, but its commander is only a captain.—Kansas City Star.

A Father Vaughan Story.

Father Richard Vaughan, the famous English Jesuit preacher, says what he has seen and what he says and does in a world of fine things. He is a man of great power and influence.

He is a man of great power and influence. He is a man of great power and influence.

He is a man of great power and influence. He is a man of great power and influence.

He is a man of great power and influence. He is a man of great power and influence.

Outside the Mausoleum.

How many beautiful homes on which money has been spent lavishly to make them complete are marred by some defect in the landscape work? A few hours' motor trip through the suburbs of almost any city in the country will reveal many such cases. The most frequent fault the trained eye receives is from the poorly laid out walks and driveways in which badly arranged curves are used or walks made to curve around an oval grass plot placed in the center for no other reason than to make pedestrians take time to circle about that particular grass plot. Postmen, messenger boys and others take a short cut, and soon a path in the proper direction is worn across the sod. When a curve is used in a walk or driveway there should be a reason for it. If there is no other reason plant one; place a tree or two or shrubs in a position so the curve will seem necessary. People then will keep on the walk, and the plan will seem reasonable.—New York Sun.

Football and Matrimony.

"Well, I wish this in k" said Mr. Jones after reading in the paper an account of the wedding of a popular member of a college football team. "But," he added, "a combing tone marriage is not a football." "You're not a football," snapped Mrs. Jones, "but you can compare football to matrimony." "Why?" he asked. "It looks so easy to those who have tried it."

Should Dissemble.

"You claim to have loved and lost."

"Yes."

"Yet you go around with a perpetual grin on your face. When you have loved and lost, difference to the lady makes it proper not to appear to be too cheerful in a loser."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Ellis Island.

In the prehistoric days of the American continent the Indians called what is now Ellis Island, the immigrant station in New York harbor, Kioosh, which in English meant Gull Island. The tribes thereabout had some strange traditions about it.

Around the Circle.

"In my time," declared grandma "girls were more modest."

"I know," said the innocent girl. "It was a bad once. We may get back to it."—Life.

Nothing can be lasting when reason does not rule.—Quintus Curtius Rufus Logical Conclusion.

"Electric" wires must be quick tempered.

"Why?"

"Because it seems so dangerous to cross them."—Baltimore American.

No Hangings.

Utility.
Just when a man begins to understand how to do what he made his life work he ups and dies, and then, a generation later, the fellow who laughs at the first man's feeble approach and gets ready to show how it ought to be done—why, this fellow catches in, too, on about the third hole. The expert who laughed at Langley still turns turtle in the upper air, and within another generation some lunatic will actually break his neck flying with individual wings hitched up to a vest-pocket motor propelled by radium or some such thing!

The infinite possibilities begin where man's greatest achievement leaves off, and about the time human understanding masters "C" in the alphabet of cause and effect and gets ready to take up "D." John L. Firth will blow up like a toy balloon colliding with a tack. —Richmond Times-Dispatch.

After You've Had a Fight.
The world would be much better if every man were as kind and good always as he is just after he has had a fight or a near fight. When he has cooled off he is glad to do just anything he can for anybody. If you want a match he will lend one for you; if you want to borrow a knife he has his out in a minute, and he opens it for you; if you borrow a pencil from him he will say, "Keep that one if you want to; I have another." It just looks as if his only purpose in living is to help other people.—Claude Callan in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Face Value.
Escarotte—She said: "I want you to take me at my face value. Don't judge me by my father's wealth." Chiffonade—And what did you say? Escarotte—Why, I told her that the present price of dyes, paints and cosmetics was so high that I couldn't afford to be associated with her.—Life.

Here are two of the stunning coats

Illustrating how remarkable a line we have procured

EVERY clever woman will notice how subtle is the very simplicity of these models, and how effectively youthful. A single line over-emphasized ever so little would have spoiled their charm and their correctness.

The ones shown are two Wooltex models newly arrived from The H. Black Company, celebrated makers of young women's coats and suits.

This is the CONNERRE, a characteristic coat of the best designing. Notice how the side panel effect gives those long graceful lines, adding to the slenderness of the figure. It comes in gabardines of all the desired shades and is trimmed in Khaki-Kool silk, now so much wanted. Left illustration.

No. 3260. Here is another use of the new and resourceful side panel, extending full to the hem of the skirt, giving to the garment graceful lines in a real sport coat. A clever touch is the pocket in the panel—one on either side. Made up in popular velour checks, and tailored the Wooltex way. Right illustration.

The earlier one buys this spring the surer she is of getting authentic creations—we have managed to get a rather large order accepted by this busy house, The H. Black Company, but they can give us no assurance about re-orders.

The Prodigal's Return

But He Was A Substitute

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

When Sam Bartlet at sixteen went away from home without bidding his parents or his little sister Ethel good by, not communicating with them afterward, he wrecked the comfort of the family. His mother died within a few years, and her death left the old man desolate indeed. His eyesight and his bearing were both impaired. His daughter Ethel, poor girl, had a hard time with him. To read to him was difficult, since she was obliged to shout, and he could not see to read himself.

Ethel loved her father, but it was natural that she should wish for something more inspiring than taking care of a broken down old man. She was but eleven years old when her brother went away and fourteen when her mother died. When at times she would have a temporary respite from the care of her father, like many another girl, she would dream of the prince who would come to marry her and give her the comforts of a home that would be her own—and his.

One morning there was a knock at the door. Ethel was upstairs and did not hear the summons. It sounded again and this time loud enough for Mr. Bartlet to hear. He went to the door and opened it. There stood a young man.

"I am looking for the home of Mr. Bartlet," said the stranger. "Have I struck the right house?"

"Speak louder," replied Bartlet, putting his hand to his ear. "I'm hard of hearing."

"I am trying to find a Mr. Bartlet, and I think you are he. I judge by the resemblance your son—"

"My son?"

"Yes, your son Sam."

"Sam?"

"Yes."

"Oh, Sam, my boy, how could you have left us as you did with never a word all these long years? You killed your poor mother, and I have one foot in the grave. How could you? How could you?"

The father put his arms around the stranger's neck and wept.

The visitor was standing in this absurd position, not knowing whether to nuzzle his tears with those of the weeping father or to laugh, when he saw an attractive looking girl descend the staircase.

"But I'll not reproach you, Sam," continued Mr. Bartlet. "I dare say I was severe with you, and a spirited girl won't stand too much correction. But that you've come back and to stay—don't you? Oh, stay with us, Ethel and I are so lonely, and we need your help. Your old father needs a strong young arm and brain to support him."

By these words and the half amused, half sympathetic look on the face of the stranger Ethel understood that her father had made a mistake. Dreading to have him suddenly dismissed, fearing a reaction consequent upon disappointment, she gave the young man a meaning look and put a finger on her lips as a signal for silence. Her father's back was to her, so she did not see her, and she, wishing to release the visitor from his embarrassing position, laid her hand softly on the old man's shoulder. He turned and saw her.

"Oh, Ethel," he exclaimed joyfully, "who do you suppose this is? Your long lost brother Sam has returned."

He disengaged himself from his supposed son that Ethel might embrace the prodigal. But Ethel stood mute.

"Forgive him, Ethel, as I have forgiven him. Forget the past and what he might have been to us during the years that are gone. It was I who drove him away by my harshness. Forgive him for my sake."

"I forgive him, father," said Ethel. But there was no warmth in the words, nor did Ethel greet her brother with a sisterly kiss. An expression of infinite pain crossed the father's face. The stranger saw it and stepped in the breach.

"Forgive me, Ethel," he said. "I have done very wrong."

He advanced to her and stretched out his arms. Ethel drew back.

"Ethel," cried her father in an agony. The stranger looked on in his arms and kissed her. Had the old man but ter eyesight he would have seen by the blushes that the kiss was not a brotherly and sisterly one. And had not the two whose spirit was perfect, strongly approved of each other's personal appearance, had not each seen in the other's expression that approval, besides something akin to love's first spark, probably the girl might not have blushed. The old man put one arm around his supposed son and the other around his daughter, forcing them to protect their eyes.

"Thank heaven, my dear children for this reunion."

"Father," said Ethel, "let us hear what Sam has to say in explanation or, rather, I had better hear it first and repeat it to you. You know you have grown very deaf since he went away, and he would have trouble making you hear."

"No," protested the old man. "I'm not so deaf that I can't hear people who speak plainly. Sam won't have to raise his voice at all if he doesn't mumble his words."

But the supposed Sam objected. He said that it was a long story he had to tell and he was tired. He would tell it to Ethel and she could repeat as much of it as she liked to their father. The old man, opposed by both his children, was obliged to give in and left them together. As soon as he had gone Ethel closed the door and looked inquiringly at the stranger.

"I was trying to begin," he said, "the delivery of a message from your late brother. He was my partner in business in a western city, and I regret to say that I came to announce his death."

Ethel sighed. It was rather that a hoped for support would not materialize than grief, for she scarcely remembered her brother. But the stranger, who gave his name as George Mason, assured her that her brother's interest in the business would be sufficient to make her father and herself quite comfortable. The story of Sam Bartlet's career was, as Mason had said, a long one, and after giving it to her the question came up as to what course to pursue in the matter of breaking the news of Sam's death to the father.

Ethel could not make up her mind to tell the old man that his son, instead of having returned to him, was dead. At any rate, she felt that it must be put off. But she invited Mr. Mason to remain in the house. Indeed, her father would understand her not doing so—until he returned to the west. The old man was informed that Sam was in business in the west and must return there, but possibly he might take his father and sister with him. George Mason before leaving his business had taken in one of his clerks as a partner, and there was no hurry for his return. He remained with the Bartlets as a prodigal son, Ethel taking care to inform her friends and acquaintances as to the true state of the case.

Several weeks passed, and Mason made no move to return to business. Ethel was beginning to fear that some stupid person might let the cat out of the bag to her father. Besides this, playing brother and sister by two persons who were not related was not likely to go on without criticism. To guard against any such issue George Mason told Ethel that they had better announce that they were engaged, which was his way of proposing. Ethel didn't quite like that way of doing it, but she acquiesced.

Every day it became more risky to disabuse the old man and confess the deception. He was waiting rapidly and it was feared that the shock of knowing that his son had not returned to him, but was dead, would kill him. Mason and Ethel, who were very much in love with each other, wished to be married, and it was necessary that Mason should return to his business. It would not do to leave the old man behind, and if they took him with them, for as he was, they could not live together as man and wife without his knowledge of their relationship. The puzzle seemed insoluble.

However, though Mr. Bartlet would not solve it by doing, he grew so blind that the young couple decided to be married and take him west with them without telling him know the secret. The ceremony was performed privately, where he would know nothing about it, and the three departed the same day for their new home.

Months passed, and although Mr. Bartlet's ears and eyes got no better, his health was no worse. The difficulty of keeping the situation from him was trifling compared with the absurdity of his talking about the relationship that he supposed to exist between his two children.

"When Sam first came home," he said to a friend, "I feared Ethel would not forgive him for all the trouble he had given us, but now she acts toward him just like a bride and he like a young husband. They kiss when he goes down to business in the morning and when he comes home in the evening. I never saw such a loving brother and sister."

While the old man was content to live as he supposed, with his children, he often wished that one of the other would say that he might have a little more to love him and cheer him up. But to gain this he must give up a part of what he already had. An outsider must be introduced into the house, and this he knew would endanger the only peace and comfort he then had.

One day a woman came calling on him, and she appealed to him, for he had a son, and that no woman could come to his home without some sort of introduction or his management. But he said to her, "I am introducing another man. I am occasionally hiring to my daughter that she should marry."

"I have a son to marry, father," she would say. "I am perfectly contented as I am. Why do you wish me to marry?"

"Well, you see, I'm lonely during the long days when Sam is at business, and I'd like to have a girl for company."

Finally about a year after the marriage the old man gave out. One day he took to his bed, which he never again left. His supposed son's absence all day at his business was a great trial to the invalid. From the time Mason went away in the morning till his return in the evening the patient would wait and watch for him.

At last when the candle of life was flickering low the dying man heard a child's cry.

"What's that?" he asked, starting up.

"Father," said Ethel, "that's little Sam, named for you, the third of the line."

"Little Sam! What do you mean?"

"Father, I have a confession to make."

But she could not make it. She knew that her father had but a few minutes to live. Hurrying out of the room, she returned carrying her boy. Taking him to his grandfather, she held him so that the old man could kiss him. He kissed the child and died.

Bathtubs and Bathing.

In many European countries "the best people"—if you know what that means—never bathe in water.

Spanish matrons have expressed much surprise at my complaints about the absence of bathing facilities in the Madrid hotels. One lady, wife of a distinguished member of the cortes, told me she "had herself rubbed down in oil once a week, but never had got into a tub of water and never would!"

My memory of London hotels goes back to 1875, when there was not a single bathtub in any hotel in that city. A tin pan and bucket of warm water was the only "tub," and you were lucky to get that.

And in that same period in New York city the Metropolitan and St. Nicholas hotels, supposed to be models of excellence, were totally wanting in bathtubs.

Admittedly, it is as difficult to imagine life without motorcars as without bathtubs, but the former are less than a twenty-year-old necessity, while the bath was an institution long before the times of the Roman emperors.—Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.

Our Coal Resources.

Are our coal mines being exhausted by their vast production? Not at a rate which need worry us or cause fear, that the next generation will freeze to death. Nearly ten years ago a competent engineer analyzed the figures of soft coal production and reserve and concluded that if our output continued to increase according to the growth shown up to that time it would reach a stable maximum of 2,300,000,000 tons per year about the year 2150 and that 700 years more of production at that rate would exhaust the known coal measures of the United States!

Since he wrote production has advanced at a slower rate than he anticipated and important new deposits have come to light. There should be no waste of our mineral fuel, but neither is there any occasion for alarm. Anthracite, of course, is another matter. But even of that there is enough to last for at least a century.—Chicago Journal.

A Wonderful Aboriginal City.

Near Laguna, N. M., may be seen Acoma, the "sky city," claimed to be the most wonderful aboriginal city in the world. It stands on an isolated rock eminence 100 feet in height. The city embraces three rows of houses over a thousand feet in length, rising up in terraces four and five stories. One is amazed when he stops to consider that the material for these buildings were transported long distances and up the cliffs upon the heads and backs of these human burden bearers. Their graveyard consumed forty years in building by reason of the necessity of bringing earth from the plain below, and their church must have cost the labor of many generations, for its walls are sixty feet high and ten feet thick, and it has timbers forty feet long and fourteen inches square.—Exchange.

A Story of Longfellow.

In Longfellow's journal, in which he chronicled daily things that came under his observation, he notes that upon a certain occasion he attended a church where the minister took as his subject "Progress." He was very flattered when the latter quoted about half of the "Psalm of Life." After repeating the verses the minister said, "I could never read that poem without feeling the inspiration with which it was written." To this incident Longfellow added: "But I had the conceit taken out of me on the evening of that day, when I happened to meet a lady at the home and in our conversation she referred to the sermon in the morning and added, 'He quoted some beautiful verses, but nobody knew where he came the quotations.'"

We, the People.

Reckoning the world's population as 1,500,000,000, the whole human race at present living, could stand comfortably shoulder to shoulder in an area of 500 square miles.

There are 100 generations in 10,000 years. If 200, the room which would hold all on the above mentioned area is less than the area of the State of Kansas. To bury all the people who have lived would need a graveyard one hundred times that area.

What Is a Hawaiian?

A common question is whether it is proper to call a Hawaiian a "Kanaka." The correct name is "Aloha." A "Kanaka" is a native Hawaiian. A "Hawaiian" is a married Hawaiian woman. A "Hawaiian" is a married Hawaiian woman. These definitions are from the Hawaiian dictionary.—Hawaiiian American Review.

Inherited, as It Were.

Professor—Yes, sir, your daughter is pretty well grounded in French, but in will, of course, take some time and trouble for her to acquire fluency. Father—Well, you know, that's rather strange to me. I had an idea that the fluency would have come sort of natural to her.—Exchange.

Explained the Matter.

Papa—I'm surprised that you are at the foot of your class, Tommy. Why aren't you at the head sometimes, like little Willie? Tommy—You see, papa, Willie's got an awful smart father, and I guess he takes after him.—London Telegraph.

Made a Difference.

"Why do you fire me? I work like sixty."

"If you were sixty that might be excusable. But you're only twenty-five."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Happy the man who learns the very wide chasm that lies between his wishes and his powers.—Goethe.

The Sadness of a Wedding.

There is something sad about a wedding. The young groom is leaving a home in which he always has had his way and is going into one in which he never will have his way. Although his parents do not go through the formality of giving him away at the altar, they know well enough that in a few minutes he will be a son-in-law to another woman, while to them he is nothing but a son. There he comes, with another man holding to his arm. It looks as if he might have made an attempt to escape and that the strong best man captured him and brought him back. He is as happy as he is nervous and so trustful that he has no fear for the future.—Claude Callan in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.
